

ISAPP 2012 lecture:

Neutrino detection and weak signals: example IceCube

In these two lectures we will review the technical and physics aspects of neutrino telescopes. We will discuss the analysis methods, the simulation issues and systematic effects which interest high energy neutrino detectors. Recent results on searches for cosmic rays, neutrino properties and dark matter will be also reported.